

Data license B:

Raw transcriptions and audio (not de-identified)

1. The parties:

- 1.1 The Licensor: Australian National University
- 1.2 Data steward: Catherine Travis, catherine.travis@anu.edu.au
School of Literature, Languages and Linguistics
Australian National University
- 1.3 The Licensee: hereinafter referred to as 'You'.

2. The Sydney Speaks collection is managed by the Sydney Speaks project, a large-scale sociolinguistic project funded through the ARC Centre of Excellence for the Dynamics of English (2014-2022). The collection consists of contemporary audio recordings and transcriptions made between 2015 and 2023 and incorporates legacy data from two additional sources: a sociolinguistic project carried out in the late 1970s and an oral history collection created during the 1980s.

3. This licence refers to the raw transcriptions and audio, which have not been de-identified from the Sydney Speaks collection, hereinafter referred to as the 'Material'.

4. Data access conditions:

4.1 The Licensor grants You a limited, non-exclusive license to access and use the Material in accordance with the terms of this License Agreement. You may not sub-license, transfer or assign access rights to another party.

4.2 The Material may be used only for non-commercial purposes in accordance with the Approved Research Proposal. No additional communication, article or abstract based on the Material, nor any other use thereof, may be made without submitting a separate research proposal.

4.3 You are permitted to publish reports which result from your use of the Material as agreed upon in the Approved Research Proposal. A copy of the product of the research undertaken must be provided to the Licensor. All reports must include appropriate acknowledgment and references as per as per the instructions in Annex 1.

4.4. Any part of the Material, both audio recordings and transcripts, that will be made public through examples must be de-identified.

4.5 You may not duplicate, circulate, share, or otherwise transmit the Material in any form (audio, electronic or print) to any third party.

4.6 You must exercise due professional care and judgement and only make use of the Material as permitted by this Licence and in accordance with the highest standards of ethical and academic practice. The Material must not serve as the basis for personal judgements about the opinions, personality or language of the participants.

5. All intellectual property rights are reserved by the Owners and Licensees of those rights.
6. You must maintain adequate data storage measures to ensure the security of the Material.
7. After completion of the activities indicated on the Approved Research Proposal this License is terminated and all related Material, with the exception of strings for statistical analysis, must be discarded from personal computers and storage devices.
8. The Material is provided as is and the Licensor is not liable for the accuracy, content, legality, completeness, availability and reliability of the Material. You must take into account that transcriptions have not been verified closely against the audio recording and may require further editing.
9. This Licence Agreement is governed by and to be construed in accordance with the laws of Australia and the Licensee will submit to the jurisdiction of Australian Courts.
10. The Licensor may terminate this License Agreement without notice.

Annex 1: Instructions for correct attribution of the Material.

The following attribution must be included on any publications, presentations and published reports:

The data on which this study is based were extracted from corpora provided by the Sydney Speaks project.
